

Internet Society of Orthopaedic Surgery & Traumatology

Last Updated Tuesday, 25 July 2006

The mission of the Internet Society of Orthopaedic Surgery and Trauma (I.S.O.S.T.) is to improve the quality of orthopaedic information on the Internet by providing a gateway, at all levels, to patient information, teaching material, CME, current research and discussion, by posting high quality orthopaedic content, by attracting onto the Internet a wider range of material and by setting standards for content quality.

ISOST is the academic global independent society supervising the OrthoGate Project. Membership in the organization is free.