

CME State-of-the-art Hip Surgery From Thomas Jefferson Univ

Last Updated Thursday, 20 November 2008

On Wednesday, September 24, at 4:30 p.m. EDT, join orthopedic surgeons from Thomas Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia as they discuss and demonstrate state-of-the-art surgical options for young and active older adults with hip disease during a live webcast.

Viewers are invited to e-mail questions to the physicians during the program. CME credit is available to medical professionals who view this program.

Learn more on OR-Live.com